A Heads Up

Many organizations have been hosting webinars and summits addressing AI and its influence on dating and dating violence; my intention is to share information I've come across

We Might Already Be Behind

Though we will discuss much of what is being used as reports show, technology is ever evolving and some tactics may have already phased out

Learning as a Community

There will be plenty of topics we experienced this evening and that's okay. Everyone is a teacher, everyone is a learner. Share what you know!

Accuracy:

→ Misinformation: AI chatbots pull information from a lot of different places in order to provide responses. A lot of this information could be outdated or misleading. The best way to get accurate and updated information on resources and safety planning is to talk with an advocate at your local DVRC.

→ Inconsistent Advice: The AI Chatbot may be designed to agree with you and go along with the conversation you are having. These platforms may actually contradict the best practices for safety planning by suggesting or agreeing with unsafe strategies that could put you at a higher risk of being harmed.

→ Non-specific Information: The advocates at your local DVRC will be able to provide you with information and resources that are accurate to your specific location. AI Chatbots may offer irrelevant, incorrect, or outdated information and make it more difficult for you to find resources that will actually help.

POLICE

Former Katy officer faces charges after allegedly using Flock cameras to track ex-wife

Sergio Rodriguez was charged with two third-degree felonies including allegedly stalking and misusing official information using Flock license plate readers to track his ex-wife for over six months.

Technology

Flock is just the latest example of using surveillance to stalk women

The technology is under fire for how police officers have abused it. But it's only the symptom of a larger problem.
